

Charlottesville/Albemarle Commission on
Children and Families
Policy on Public Comment
Adopted September 6, 2006

The Charlottesville/Albemarle Commission on Children and Families acknowledges the importance of public discourse about topics of importance to children and families. Those affiliated with CCF are encouraged to participate in public dialog as concerned residents. However, Commissioners, staff, and work group members should take care to represent their opinions as personal and not as a statement on behalf of the Commission, unless directed or authorized by Commission as a whole or by the Executive Committee to make a public statement of opinion or an endorsement.
